Personal Web Site Assignment

For this assignment, you need to create your own personal web site. To meet the requirements of the assignment you need to create a home page with links out to additional pages, information, and/or media. Your site should contain a legitimate amount of content and information to express your ideas. In addition, you should compose a 750-word design justification that explains your thoughts behind your design decisions, with specific examples the site you've made and references to Krug and the Web Style Guide (2nd).

Sources for your reconsideration regarding design issues include the lecture on basic design principles, the lecture of web page design, the lecture on site design principles, Krug's text, and the Web Style Guide (2nd). You should also review the ancillary links provided on the 275 page at http://courses.samfee.net/.

To excel in the assignment, you should closely adhere to the design principles we have studied (more than just CRAP), and you should also be extremely careful with your coding syntax.

Your grade for this assignment will be based upon the following criteria:

      10% - Responsiveness to Assignment
      30% - Quality & Correctness of Code
      30% - Adherence to Design Principles
      30% - Design Justification

Markup for this project must adhere to HTML5 &CSS3 specifications. You should use a text editor to create your html files. Zip all these files up into one archive file and email it to me by the beginning of class on the due date.
